Baccarat Case.

Nervousness and Ill Temper. The Defendants Have the Best of the

Gen. Williams Tells the Story o How Sir William Gordon Cumming Was Bulldozed

by His Friends.

Legal Ba tle So Far.

By Telegraph to The Times DLONDON, June 2.- By Cable and Associated Press. | The second day of the baccarat trial began this morning with a repetition of the scenes of yesterday. Long before 11 o'clock, the hour fixed for opening court, all the seats were filled. Many of those present brought lunches, so they would not be compelled to lose any part of the proceedings by going out to eat. The plaintiff, Sir William Gordon Cum-ming, resumed the witness stand.

Pressed by cross-examination questions of Russell, the plaintiff said he took the present legal proceedings because the baccarat scandal had become a public matter of conversation and comment, and because it reached the clubs to which he belonged, the Turf Club and the Mariborough Club, among others, and had he not taken action in the matter his clubs would certainly have done so,

Sir Charles then read two letters from Gen. Williams. They were ad-dressed to "Dear Bill" and referred to the complaints made by plaintiff that the pledge of secrecy given when he signed the document agreeing never to play cards again had been broken.

In reply to defendants' counsel's mestions Sir William said he applied o Col. Stracer of the Scots Guards, in January last, for permission to retire from the army on half pay. He added that Col. Stracer replied that the fact that he, the plaint if, had signed a document of the nature of the one already ument of the nature of the one already described could not be overlooked.

A letter from Gen. Williams to Cumming was then read and placed in evidence. It was addressed "My dear Bill," and the contents were that there was nothing let to him (plaintiff) but to place himself unreservedly in the hands of his commanding officer, Col. Stracer, as he had done. The letter also contained the following: "You are quite at liberty to teil Col. Stracer that you signed the document under extreme pressure and a promise of secrecy."

Witness here said: "I have never for a moment ceased to deny the accu-sation made against me." Later on Sir William denied that he said to Berkeley Levett: "Could you not say hat you were mistaken?" A sensation was created at this point by Sir Charles Russell, who, after hearing this last denial from the plaintiff, remarked gravely, fixing his eyes steadily upon the Baronet in the witness box: "Col. Sir William Gordon Cumming, you will have to be careful!"

A low murmur of comment passed over the people in court as Sir Charles Russell uttered these words. Plaintiff evidently noticed the effect they had, for almost immediately afterward his manner seemed to lose some of its jaunty carelessness and he acknowledged that he had said "something of that sort" to Berkeley Levett. This caused another sensation, and it seemed to be admitted that counsel for defendants scored his first real lecided advantage.

WALES ON THE STAND. The Prince of Wales was next called to the witness bex. The Prince gave his testimony in a clear voice and with an unruffled brow. In substance the Prince said: "I have known plaint:ff for twenty years, and have been his friend for ten years. He visited my house several times. Our intimacy continued unimpaired until last September. I observed nothing suspicious in plaintiff's play at Tanbycroft. I was first informed of the reports current in regard to Sir William by Lord Coven-Continuing, the Prince said the sad statement of three gentlemen and two ladies (Mr. and Mrs. Lycett Green, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson and Mr. Berec lawyer's thrusts skillfully.

Finally alluding to the compact of any of the five persons in question until after Sir William had an interview with me and denied the charge brought against him. When I heard the gen-tleman's story several days afterward, tleman's story several days afterward, Lord Coventry and Gen. Williams pre-pared a statement of what had taken place and handed it to me."
Cross-examined by Russell, the Prince was asked: "Do you recollect whether in addition to the three gentle-men referred to you also saw Lord Edward Somerset and Capt. Somerset at Tanbarger(12") gestion did not come from me. I acquiesced in the suggestion which was made by Lord Coventry. I was greatly distressed at the occurrence. I was present at the interview with Sir William of the country was present at the interview with Sir William in the presence of Gen. Will-iams and Lord Coventry. I think he, (Sir William) asked me whether I be-lieved the statement about him, but I do not recollect what I replied."

"Do you recollect any reference to the Duke of Cambridge?" was the next question.

"Decidedly," replied the Prince.
"Did you desire, under the circumstances, to act as leniently as possible out of regard for Sir William Gordon Cumming?"

"Most certainly. The date of the document was omitted by Lord Coventry and affixed to it after it had been "Have you met Sir William since

"Have you met Sir William since the occurrence at Tanbycroft?" asked Sir Charles.
"No," answered the Prince.
"And have you intimated that you cannot meet him?"
"It would be more agreeable not to meet him."

meet him.

AN INQUISITIVE JUROR. At this stage a juryman caused sensation by rising in his place and asking in a loud voice: "Are the jury on these two occasions and saw nothing of the alleged malpractices?"

The Prince hesitated for a moment as if undecided as to whether he ought or ought not reply. Finally he said, with half a smile: "It is very easy for bankers when dealing cards not to see bankers when dealing cards not to see anything, especially when in company with friends in country houses. You do not for a moment suppose that any do not for a monacity."
one will play unfairly."
was your

The juror asked: "What was opinion at the time the charges made against plaintiff?" To this the Prince suavely replied:
"The charges made against him were so unanimous that I had not any other course open to me than believe them."

The Prince's answer caused another flutter of excitement, followed by whispered comment. The juror, apparently, had succeeded in bringing out squarely and beyond any possible doubt the fact that the Prince of Wates in view of the evidence which was placed before him at Tanbycroft by the ladies and gentlemen who had played baccarat with Sir William Cumming, September 8 and 9, had become convinced of plaintiff's guilt. When the murmurs of astonishment which greeted the juror's questions and the Prince's answers subsided. Sir Edward Clarks, seeing he must do everything possible to regain the ground which seemed to have been lost by the plaintiff in the estimation of the jurymen, said, addressing the Prince of Wales: "I take it for Your Highness's answer to the first question put to you by the juror was substantially that you had not seen any majoractice during the games of baccarat played at Tanby-crott last September?" The Prince assented to this and his examination concluded. He gave his evidence in a halting, hesitating man-ner and he seemed to be very glad and exceedingly relieved when his examination was over.

Gen. Owen Williams was the next witness. He-related the incidents connected with the games, his testimony in the main concurring with the previous witnesses.

Russell he said that on the second night of the playing he heard the Prince of Wales tell plaintiff that he should keep his hands further back because he (the Prince) could not see the stakes. The General said that he and others who were present at Tanby-croft told plaintiff that the signing the difficulty, and if he did not do s he would have to leave the house and would, in addition, be warned off ever race course in England or elsewhere

When Sir Charles Russell asked Gen agony of mind and that he (the Gen-eral) did not wish to add to his old friend's grief.

At another part of the cross-examination the General admitted that plaintiff had reproached Lord Coventry and himself for giving plaintiff what he termed "bad advice."

Sir Charles Russell's cross-examination of Sir William Gordon Cumming event of the charges brought against Sir William broke up the party at Tan-bycroft. He (the Prince) sealed the ful effort. What Sir Charles wanted document up, put it in his pocket and sent it to his secretary, who was not remained quiet so long as he thought aware of the contents. The letter, the facts in connection with the said the Prince, remained in a safe scandal would not get out, and that place until sent for in connection with the present proceedings. The document inside the packet, the Prince explained, was a

Finally alluding to the compact of secrecy, plaintiff said: "Yes, I lived in a fool's paradise for a time. At last I had to act, because had I not done so the thing would have been taken up by my club, by my friends and my regi-

the memorandum a suggestion of yours or another's in which you acquisesced?"

In reply the Prince said: "The suggestion of Wilson told him something about Sir William's cheating, and Sir Charles wanted to find out what she had told the Prince, but the latter's show of another wanted the prince, but the latter's show of another wanted the prince, but the latter's show of another wanted the prince, but the latter's show of another wanted the prince, but the latter's show of another wanted the prince, but the latter's show of another wanted the prince wanted the prin

THE PRINCE WAS NERVOUS. Though it only lasted twenty minutes, the examination of the Prince evidently wearied him exceedingly and made him extremely nervous. He kept changing his position and did not seem able to keep his hands still. When a question more pressing, more to the point than usual, was put to him, the Prince's face was observed to flush considerably and then to turn pale again, showing the state of nervousness in which he found himself. Except to the Lord Chief. Justice, counsel, jurdrs, press representatives and others in proximity to the witness-box only about a couple of the Prince's answers were audible throughout the courtroom. evidently wearied him exceedingly and

Serious Charges Made Against Promi-

One of the Investigating Committee Says the Bank's Rottenness

PHILADELPHIA, June 2 .- [By the Associated Press. | The City Council's committee investigating the methods of ex-City Treasurer Bardsly continued the inquiry this afternoon, the Key-stone Bank's doings being under inspection. Bank Examiner Drew stated that there were 2515 shares of so-called lawyer of burglar Horton nically overissued stock. It was Cincinnati crooks, and be-mainly in the name of John C. Lucas. None of it was ever in the name of John Wanamaker, and witness did not think he was ever a stockhelder. nor was William H. Wanamaker as far as he could recollect. Mr. Alexander, counsel for ex-Treasurer Bardsley. cross-examined Drew very sherply. Drew said he had made semi-annual examinations of the Keystone bank for the past ten years. He was not prepared to say that it was not indebted to the amount of $600.000 or $800,000 to other banks during the past three or four years. "Do you ever remember, before Lucas died," said Alexander, "having once called upon the Keystone bank a week too soon"?

"I don't remember any such matter," replied Drew.
Did you not come to Philadelphia once to examine the Keystone Bank and then deter the examination for &

"No, sir." At the close of Drew's examination Councilman Elting offered a resolution that the Mayor write to President Harrison asking him to order an investigation of the conduct of the Treasury Department in connection with the Keystone Bank affair; ordering the production of all accounts of the bank and appearance of Comptroller of the Currency Lacy before the committee.

Elting made a vigorous speech in de-lense of the motion.

He said if the banking law was to be acted upon and construed as in the Keystone case, there would be little protection for any depositors. By the confession of Marsh in January the Treasury Department became aware of the Keystone's rottenness, yet for ninety days thereafter the bank was allowed to remain open and the city and citizens of Philadelphia were invited to deposit their money. "Some people," he said, "who had every op-portunity to know the story of the rot-ten bank had every chance to get out while people who could not know the story had every chance to get in. It is the most extraordinary action on the part of the General Government Lever Mayor Holmes, this atternoon, who promised worldly protection to the reducement for many promised world protection to the reducement of the General Government Lever dearly of the General Government Lever part of the General Government Computer Computer Lacy was responsible. But be well the the Lacy was responsible. But be well the the Lacy was responsible. But be well the the th other men were doing in those ninety days after the frauds were known and while the city of. Philadelphia was handing her millions into that bank." One other member of the committee voted with Elting and four against him; so the matter dropped for the present, but it is expected to be reviewed shortly.

Paying Teller Thomas of the Keystone Bank said another employé and himself were kept very busy running between the Keystone and Spring Garden banks with cash to prepare for the visits of the examiner. An import-ant point in Thomas's testimony was to the effect that during his six year's connection with the Keystone, Examiner Drew dropped in about twice in ley was not paid any interest on what city money he had in the bank. He had no money of the State on deposit. The latest sensational outcome of the bank matter is that the validity of the clearing-houseDagreement between the national banks is shortly to be tested in the United States courts. HARRISBURG (Pa.,) June 2.—The sureties of State Treasurer Boyer have placed upon deposit $125,000, to make good the losses sustained by the State in the Delamater and Jamison failures.

A Gotham Scandal Recalled. NEW YORK, May 2.—The Tribune says that Douglass Green, who ran away to Europe with Mrs. McCrea, daughter of Chicago's murdered millionaire, Snell, has been in this country for some time, making arrangements to save his seat in the Stock Exchange, pois last week.

A Letter for the Czar. SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—Capt. Rotendorff left here last night on his way to St. Petersburg. He arrived from Japan Friday, and is the bearer of a letter from the Czarevitch to his father, giving an account of the assault on him by the Japanese. The Czarevitch will not visit San Francisco, as was expected.

Resigned Aft r Long Service. CINCINNATI, June 2.—Col. Sydney D. Maxwell, who for thirty years has filled the responsible position of superintendent of the Merchants' Exchange and Chamber of Commerce in this city, today tendered his resignation, the duties having become too onerous for his impaired health.

Expert Testimony in the Miles Examination.

THE EVIDENCE OF DR. ELLIS

He Thinks the Stains are Blood, and Is Corroborated by Coroner Weldon-The Case to

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock the pre-liminary examination of George H. Miles, charged with the murder of his partner, George W. Miller, in the cardroom of the Cariton saloon, which was conducted by the two, was resumed before Justice Owens in the old City Hall, on Second street.

The first witness sworn for the prosecu-tion was Dr. H. B. Ellis, whose statement was in the form of expert testimony, as he made a scientific examination of the spots on the hammer with which the terrible deed is alleged to have been committed on human blood.

The would not swear positively that it was blood, but he believed it to be. He was cross-examined at some length, and as the defense was not through with him at the noon hour, a recess was taken until 2 o'clock p. m. o'clock p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Dr. Ellis was recalled on cross-examination when Court convened after the noon recess. He stated that the blood on the handle of the hammer did not have the appearance of blood. When he removed the stains from the head of the hammer for the affair there was probably no serious damage done.

District Attorney McLachian followed in a very strong argument against the motion to dismiss at this stage of the proceedings, and reviewed the evidence at length, making out a strong circumstantial case against the defendant. He insisted that the prosshown that Miller and Miles had had a quarrel, during which the former had called the latter a liar, showing that there had been bad blood between them. The prosecution had further shown that Miles had expected to be removed from his position in the saloon, and had been talking about leaving the city. Every act of Miles, he said, was that of a guitty man, even down to his acts when informed that Miller had been killed. He did not even ask how he was killed, and instead of going back to the room to learn what had happened, he he was killed, and instead of going back to the room to learn what had happened, he went out on the sidewalk to consult with a friend of his. Mr. McLachlan did not think friend of his. Mr. McLachian did not think that all the work that had been done by Chief Glass should go for naught, and he thought the defend in should be held. A frightful crime had been committed, and everything possible should be done to bring the perpetrator of the foul deed to justice. Mr. Shinn briefly replied to Mr. McLachian, and, after a few remarks by the District Attorney, the argument closed, and the Court announced that he would take the matter under advisement until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

MILES'S CHARACTER.

MILES'S CHARACTER. Considerable surprise was manifeste when the prosecution closed its case, as it was thought that an effort would be made to show up Miles's character. It was known that before Miles was arrested, Chief Glass had communicated by telegraph with various points in New Mexico as to his character, and the replies in every instance was that it was bad. It was known that Miles had killed a man named Smith just over the Mexican line in Sonora, and it was stated that he had killed another man, but the details were not given. Reports were also received from Arizona, and these were also bad. Should Justice Owens deny the mognitude of the control of the control

THE BLOOD-STAINED HAMMER.

The testimony of the experts regarding the blood-stained hammer caused a great deal of comment among physicians last evening, and opinion was divided as to whether or not it was possible by the aid of the microscope to positively determine the difference between human blood and that of animats. Carpenter, who is an authority on the subject, states positively that human blood can be distinguished from brute blood. He says, in speaking of human blood: "When floating in a sufficiently thick stratum of blood drawn from the body and placed under a cover-glass the red corpuscles show a marked tendency to approach one another, adhering by their discoidal surfaces so as to present the aspect of a pile of coins; or, if the stratum be too thin to admit of this, partially overlapping, or simply adhering by their deges which then become polygonal instead of circular. The size of the red corpuscles is not altogether uniform in the same blood; thus it varies in that of man rom about 1-4000th to the 1-2800th of an meh. But we generally find that there is an average size which is pretty constantly maintained among the different THE BLOOD-STAINED HAMMER.

individuals of the same species; that of man may be stated at about 1-3300th of an inch. He then gives a table showing the difference between man and other animals. Medical Science, edited by Albert H. Buck, M. D. of New York, gives a lengthy article on blood-stains, in which the author says: "In criminal trials the medical withess is often called to determine whether stains found on weapons—as knives, clubs or dazgers—or upon the clothing of a suspected person, or upon the floor, walls or ground where a homicide is supposed to have been committed, were caused by blood or by some other coloring matter. So also, it is often equally important to determine whether stains scknowledged to be blood, are the blood of a human being or the blood of one of the lower animals."

He then goes on to state in a lengthy article that there are certain crystals in human blood that are not found in any other blood, and says that the smallest particle even on the point of a knife is sufficient to make a test.

Several well-known physicians were seen last night and all agreed that there is not the slightest trouble to distinguish human blood from any other and there is no reason why a proper test should not have been made from the hammer in the Miles case.

Mrs. D. A. Sovereign, who removed to Riverside some months since, has returned to East Los Angeles for a few days, and was out calling on old friends and neighbors yesterday.

The infant child of S. Johnson was burled yesterday.
Little Jimmle, the four-year-o Little Jimmie, the four-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Hanriban of No. 514 Darwin avenue, climbed up to a cupboard yesterday about noon and succeeded in getting a bottle of carbolic acid, which had been placed there for safe keeping. The child managed to taste of it, which would have caused his death in a vary short time had not Dr. Steddom applied remedies immediately, which it is thought will save its life.

A large party of excursionists came in from Pasadena yesterday afternoon and visited the powerhouse and other places of interest on the East Side.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Powell of Azusa were visiting S. H. C. Langworthy and family yesterday.

A gentleman while attempting to alight from a car as it was making a curve on Downey avenue, yesterday morning, came very near being seriously injured by being thrown violently off.

Quite a disturbance was heard in the restaurant at the corner of Downey avenue.

Dr. Ellis was recalled on cross-examination when Court convened after the noon recess. He stated that the blood on the handle of the hammer dfd not have the appearance of blood. When he removed the stains from the head of the hammer for the purpose of making an examination, he found that the stains were from blood, and he would call them clots of blood.

Chief Glass was recalled by the prosecution and stated that he noticed the door between Room 3 when Miller's body was found and Room 4. He found that a nail had been driven in and looked as if it had been broken off instead of being forced out by the violent opening of the door.

Coroner Weidon was recalled on cross-examination by the defense, and stated that the stains not the hammer, but he is officer the house of the policy o decrease in the local consumption of frugativities will follow, and the growers will suffer thereby.

Our national and State constitutions expressly, forbid class legislation. The proposed law gives the fruit-store-keepers at decided advantage over the peddlers. It would be far more bonorable for these men to commence with the Chinese, and let American citizens alone. The fruit men induced a former Council to pass a law prohibiting the peddling of fruit in the district bounded by the Plaza, Los Anzeles, Fourth, and Hill streets. This is protection enough. Why the peddling of other wares was not included seems strange. The fruit men evidently have a horror of competition; which is, according to authorities, the life of trade. It is to be hoped that the designs of this "combine" will be checked. Give the peddlers a chance to make a living. There is room for all in the fair city of Los Angeles. In closing, I would suggest to the fruit-store-keepers that after they succeed in capturing the earth, ownership of the sky should be next in order.

Three young men appeared before Judge Smith yesterday afternoon on writs of habeas corpus, in pursuance of the petition of their counsel, Hugh J. Crawford, Esq. and asked for their release from the City Jail on various technical grounds.

John Powers and John O'Day, both of whom were convicted of petty larceny by Police Judge Owens on December 18 last, and sentenced to imprisonment in the City Jali for 500 days each, in default of payment of tines of $500 each, demand their release on an entirely different ground, however. They claim that since the time the judgment under which they are held was passed upon them, the law has been repealed by implication, and that there is now, therefore, no statute in existence justifying their detention.

After hearing this matter argued by H.

City Attorney W. E. Dunn against them,
Judge Smith ordered the matter to be submitted on briefs, the parties being allowed twenty-four and forty-eight hours, respectively in which to prepare the same.

The plaintiff claims that at 8 a. m. on the date above mentioned he was arrested at Verdugo Cañon by the defendants without legal authority for so doing, and taken to Burbank, Whence he was subsequently escorted to the County Jail. He was there detained until May 5 at 4 p. m.

The defendants, on the other hand, allege that the Chinaman was legally arrested for polluting the water in a zauja, which was near his shanty, by washing dirty clothing therein, and dumping filth into it, although he knew that it was used for domestic purposes by the people below.

Three appeal cases from the Police Court came up for hearing before Judge Smith in Department One yesterday morning. That of Charles Page, who was recently convicted of a misdemeanor, viz., erecting a brick kin on Beuna Vista street, within the city limits, on April 28 last; was argued by John Robarts, Esq., and those of Fred Czarske and Theodore Friese, two saleon-keepers, recently convicted of violating the Sunday-closing ordinance, were argued by Henry Bleeker, Esq. Deputy City Attorney W. L. Dunn appeared on behalf of the city in all three cases. At the close of the argument, the Court ordered the matters submitted on briefs, the parties being allowed five and ten days, respectively, in which to prepare the same.

It first defines an assault and then rape, both in the language of the code; and then tells the jury if they believe from the evidence beyond a re-sonable doubt that the defendant assaulted the prosecutrix with the intention at the time to have sexual intercourse with her fourthy and against hereconic and against here. defendant assaulted the prosecutrix with the intention at the time to have sexual intercourse with her forcibly, and against her will and resistance, then they should find the defendant gailty as charged. I think the instruction good law. The criticism is that it does not ten the jury the degree of resistance necessary; but the amount of resistance on the part of the sesilant, nor the amount of resistence on the part of the female, do not both together, nor each of itself, constituter pe. ART SCHOOL RECEPTION.

The monthly reception at the School of Art and Design i stevening was the most brilliant that has been held this year, and the exhibit of work by the students shows marked progress. A paper by Dr. Alter on the necessity of thorough work to attain exceilence, was followed by the remarks of the secretary—Mr. McLeod—in which he gave two most happy illustrations of the value of persistent application to the weak points in order to make them strong, after which refreshments were served. The music that followed was a treat that kept the guests until a late hour. Among the students and their friends present were Mrs. Livingood, Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw, Mrs. Loomis, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Grosty, Frank Bradshaw, Misses Zetta Behne, McComas, Robinson, Crowley, Fish, Johnston, Dr. and Mrs. Alter, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson, Misses L. wrence, Hammel, R. vzer and friend, Mrs. and Miss King, Mrs. Westbrook, etc.

the pastor, Rev. Will A. Knighten, Tuesday.

The business session was of unusual interest, the lesson being the comparison between the lives of heathen women and the women of Christendom. The attendance was large, and after tea was served by the ladies a musical and literary entertainment was well rendered.

A very pleasant feature of these entertainments is the large number of the young people who attend and greatly contribute to the social entertainment of all.

A humorous but sensible article entitled "Our First Missionary Tea," was well read by Mrs. M. J. Plerpont, and proved the attraction of the evening. Miss Houser and Mr. Robinson were encored after a duet.

All women do not act alike in the same state of mind and under like circumstances. One might show fight and another rendered mute with fear; one might struggle in one way and another quite differently, and yet be making her utmost resistance. This question was ably and fairly presented to the jury both by instructions and arguments, and they have passed upon it. And from my recollection of the testimony I am not inclined to disagree with them.

Who can rebuild before the eye of the mind a single ordinary dwelling of the vanished London of the middle of the Thirteenth century? It was a dwarfish, squalid structure of such crazy unsub-stantiality that. With a stout iron crook and two strong cords, provided by the ward, it migh be pulled down and dragged off speedily in case of fire; a structure of one story jutting over a low ground floor, with another jut of eaves above, its roof perchance engrailed with gables, its front bearing an odd re semblance to the back of a couple of hage stairs, and the whole a most rickety, tumbledown, top heavy, fantastical thing Chimneys were fairly in vogue then, so it had them-squat, square wide mouthed, faced with white plaster.

A Glance at London Society. Take the vast London society. It is a stiffnecked dress parade in which one meets one's best friend once a fortnight and strangers in proportion. People never know each other well and are almost suspicious of those they do know. Invitations are sent out from one to two months ahead and people come and go without making a visible impression, and there is none of that merry familiarity which makes American life so enjoy-

A dinner is a set affair, with no gen eral conversation and a total absence of what the French call esprit; in fact, most of the Englishman's pleasures are of the macintosh and umbrella kind. The Londoner is always guarded and suspicious of the stranger, and I don't wonder, considering some of the Americans he has had shoved upon him. But, after all, there are too many people in London; it is impossible to expect free-dom, familiarity and hospitality among such a multitude.—Cor. Chicago Nawa.

COMMENTING on a terrific storm which lately wrought fearful destruction in that section, the Kansas City Sta says the moral is that every farmer in Missouri and Kansas ought to build a exclone cave within a step of his house for the protection of his family. This is a cheerful outlook. Surely those who come here from Kansas and com plain of the price of our lands ought to make some allowance for the absence of cyclones.

THE Board of Education has accepted the offer of the Turnverein Soslety to instruct free of charge a number of public school children in order to demonstrate the practicability and value of systematic physical culture in the public schools. There is no doubt in the minds of any who have studied the question as to the value of systematic physical culture. It should be introduced in our schools without delay. The tendency of our school system, nowadays, is to force the mind at the expense of the body.

EMIGRATION FROM THE UNITED

STATES. There is plenty of immigration to this country, but it is not often that we hear of people emigrating from the United States to better their condition. Yet, according to a dispach from Winnipeg to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, this is what was witnessed up there one day last week. Here is a description of the remarkable spectacle, as given by the correspondent referred to:

Looking at the present and future wants the county, and acting for the whole of of the county, and acting for the whole of the county, without prejudice against any part of it, the board believed the interests of the county would be best subserved by issuing $350,000 in bonds, and a receing at once a courthouse and jail sufficient for the present needs, and for many years to come. Favoritism and III Treatment the Principal Causes-No Chance for Promotion-A Sallor's Complaint-New Law.

"How is it that men show such a dislike to the naval service? There are lots of seamen in San Francisco at the present time, yet, for some reason or other, men can't be got to man the ship now at Mare Island." This was the inquiry made yesterday of an ex-naval officer by a Call reporter.

"Well," was the reply, "there are number of reasons why Uncle Sam can't get men. One reason is tha when a sailor goes on board a man-of war he is never sure of getting ashore again until his time expires, as it i entirely optional with the commander whether he gives his men liberty or not. Some men are very fortunate in this respect and may have the privilege accorded almost every day, while others can never gain the required per-

"Another reason is that on most of the vessels the men are greatly charged for nearly everything they get from the paymaster, such as clothing, tobacco, etc., and the profits thus made go into the pockets of the paymaster. Then, again, many of the officers are very overbearing in their treatment of those under them, forgetting that the men in blue shirts are often just as smart as some of those who wear gilt

"I have heard young officers talk to men more like as if they were dogs than men, and knowing what I do of the service I am never surprised when I hear of a ship losing many of her crew by desertion. Of course, all the officers are not alike in regard to their treatment of the men, but there are sure to be enough on board every ship to make the men discovered every ship to make the men discontented.

"Few of those who join the service ever enlist for a second cruise. One dose is generally enough. The few who do enlist a second time are in who do entist a second time are invariably foreigners.

"Then a man who chooses the naval service for a life profession has a very poor prospect before him. He may get to be a first-class perty officer, but no matter how smart and how much he may study and improve himself, he can never hope to obtain a commission.

Looking at it from a business stand-point, 99 per cent. of Americans can do far better in any other following ashore, and they would be foolish to enter a service in which they could never be anything better than an en-

No man can say that the men chosen to fall the positions of petty officers are the best seamen, for it is well known that the American seaman is the equal of any in the world ...

"Since the civil war our navy has been chiefly manued by foreigners. Not more than 20 per cent. of the crews since that time have been Amercan citizens, and now that the law re-quires the navy to be manned only by citizens the source of supply has been shut off. The result follows, that now that we have ships we cannot get crews for them, while only a few years ago, when we did not possess a vessel fit to carry the Stars and Stripes across the ocean, we could get men enough to the ocean, we could get men enough to man fifty ships a year."

An ex-man-of-war's man, who is now in the Postoffice Department, was next seen and corroborated the officer's story. "I served three years in the navy," he said, "and in order to keep out of trouble I stood more than I would ever stand again. uccess and Fallure Among Advertisers—The Right Way.

Recent statistics, according to Bradstreet's Commercial Directory, show that in all lines of industrial life, more than four-fifths, or over 82 per cent of all who tailed in business in the United States last year were brought to that condition primarily because of lack of equipment, either nat-ural or acquired, mental or financial, or through lack of special education in their respective lines of trade.

It is clear and plainly evident that poor and superficial preparation for business life is the one great weakness of our present industrial training—the broadest of all avenues leading to fall-ure. It is this lack of proper equip-ment which causes certain advertisers to fail, while others gradually work their way to eminent success and great wealth. The great study with the advertiser, therefore, should be how to start right, how to go on right, how to constantly keep fully equipped.

Advertising is a science. What would be thought of a young man or youth who developed a genius for mathemat-ics, who said, "I will not study, arith-metic, or aigebra, or geometry. I will not give time to the teaching of the professors and masters of that great science, but I will work all out for my-self, arriving at better methods, through the power of my own intellect and genius." However great his natural ability he could not progress far in a lifetime. But if he availed himself of the knowledge left to all as a heritage-treasure accumulated by thousands of great minds in the years and ages past—then might he become great in the profound science, and pos-sibly renowned through some advance life, so may the ordinary advertiser succeed moderately well with the same half careless study and the same lack f genius.

Hard, patient work accomplishes much. In one sense industry and re-search are the parents of genius. Thus, advertisers, without much genius, who study the science modergenius, who study the science in the ately, succeed fairly, while those who have natural genius in a high degree, but who will not work to learn from others, almost invariably fail. But great success is the result of the happy union of natural genius and careful, patient study and investigation.

This little magazine is an educator: t teaches the science of advertising From an editorial standpoint it is able. Its contributors are, in the main, the most successful advertisers and advertising experts. Its advertis-ers are very largely the ablest adver-tising agencies and the liveliest and most valuable advertising mediums. Its proprietor, the strong, leading advertising agency, of whom that propressive thoughtful student and teacher of the science of advertising, George P. Rowell, is the head. The reader is constantly brought in contact with many of the brightest and ablest minds who are interested in advertising. Such interchange of thought means constant progress. It is an exchange for the promotion of the science of advertising through bringing together, in free discussion, the ablest minds. As a publication develop the advertiser, it stands entirely unequaled and unrivaled in this or any other country. Issued weekly, its teaching and influence are continuous on the reader; thus are men guided and developed almost without ealizing it. This continuous educa tion means continuous progress for the great field of advertisers. Do not understand me as saying that all wis dom in the art is to be found in this magazine, but I do say that more is to be found there than in any other single channel in the world. chart is a little thing, but on it much of the safety of the mariner depends. Printers' Ink is the chart or guide to whom many advertisers already owe much of their salety and success.

For twenty years I have constantly advertised. Successful at the start, through the value of an original, popular idea, I was weak enough to fancy that I knew something about adver tising. The loss of over one hun dred thousand dollars in 187 nade a profound impression on ne, to the effect that I knew nothing about it. I went to work to try deavor and study, I have been able to hold a place in the ranks of success.

Could I have had at that time such magazine, such an exchange of thought, such a teacher and educator as Printers' Ink. I think I should have saved over one hundred thousand dol lars in 1872. I also believe I should have made more money, and with less worry and care. as the years rolled by.

The reader doubtless infers that I would pay a very high price for Printer's lnk if necessary. I would pay er's lnk if necessary. I would pay $1000 a year for it, if it could not be secured for less, simply because I be-lieve it to be worth more than that sum to me in my business.

TACOMA (Wash.,) June 2.—[By the Associated Press.] United States troops from the Government barracks at Vancouver, on the Columbia River. arrived here this morning to protect the rights of the Puyallup Indians to lands of their reservation across the bay from this city. The land is directly opposite and contiguous to Tacoma and ranges in value from $3900 to $12,000 per acre. There are a score of Indians residing in huts in plain sight from parts of Tacoma, who own lands in their own rights, worth hundreds of thousands of dollars and there are individual Indians worth half a million dollars. During these two months squatters have settled on portions of this land, and erected shanties, hoping to gain title to it by a loophole in the lands acts. These sqattters have increased steadily lately, despite the work of Agent Eells of the Puyallup reservation. For about a week the agent has been keeping the wires hot between here and Washington, with the result that soldiers appeared here this morning. There is one company of twenty-five men, in charge of Lieut. Cahell. They went into camp at once on the

THE GIANT PURSE CRAB.

He Climbs Cocoanut Trees and Cracks the Nuts Against Stones.

In the mining bureau may be seen a very fine specimen of the remarkable large land crab known as the purse crab, or Birgus latro, which is well preserved in a glass jar. This is one of the largest species of land crab known. It is sometimes found from 18 to 24 inches in length when fully stretched out, and is length when fully stretched out, and is capable of erecting itself to the height of nearly a foot from the ground, which it readily does if irritated, retreating and exhibiting to the utmost its powers of offense and defense. It is somewhat allied to the hermit crab, but having the abdomen or tail shorter, yet very large, on the under side of which it carries its eggs in immense quantities. Its under side is soft and SEASIDE embranous, its upper surface covered with strong plates, which overlap one another as in lobsters. The first pair of legs have large and powerful pincers; the second and third pairs of legs are terminated by a single nail; the pair next to them are a little smaller, with small pincers; the pair of legs nearest to the abdomen are very small, but terminated by rudimentary pincers.

When teased this crab is so powerful in its first claws and legs as to be able to cling to a stick, and can hold its own reight to be carried for over a half hour before letting go, It can travel about as fast backward as forward if pursued. It is generally of a yellowish brown color, its limbs being, however, covered with little blackish projections.

It is never found far from the sea, to which it is said to pay visits in order to moisten its gills, but it always resides on and, and is generally found in holes under the roots of trees, especially of cocoa-nut trees, which it prefers, and where it accumulates great quantities of the fibers of the cocoanut husks, as if to keep itself warm or for a soft bed. As a general thing the purse crab stays in these hole during the daytime and comes out at night.

Its food generally consists of cocoa nuts, also the nuts of a species of palm known as Pandanus odorotismus, and other nuts, which it climbs the trees to procure, cutting the cocoanut from the tree with its heavy claws, and after it has cut down two or three it descends and commences to pull the husk from

In its manner of dealing with cocos nuts it exhibits a remarkable instinct, as it always begins to tear off the husk at where the eyes are. It then makes a hole through the eve from which the nut would germinate. This is done by striking the fruit with its heavy claw and breaking it sufficiently to admit one of the small legs, by which it scoops out the nut with its small pin-cers. Sometimes it seizes the nut by one of its great pincers and breaks it against a stone.

The purse crab is found in the mountains and in the more eastern islands of the Indian ocean, as well as on some of pecially in the Caroline islands, which low coral group.-San Francisc Chronicle.

Hats and Heads

It has been noticed by Mr. Henry Heath, who sends hats all over the world, from Calcutta to Peru, that different na-tionalities. possess heads of distinctive sizes and shapes. For instance, Germans have very round heads, a peculiarity shared by our own royal family. The average English head is what hatters call a good shape—that is, rather long. The Scotch, one is not surprised to learn, are very long headed. Canadians are disinguished by exceptionally large heads, South Americans by very small ones. Australians, again, have rather small heads. The subject is an interesting one, and worth pursuing further if space allowed. The heads of individuals also vary a good deal from time to time, hrinking during illness or mental worry, and generally becoming smaller with advancing years. As to shape, there is such a thing as fashion, but it only affects mashers; men stick to much the same shape year after year.—Pall Mall Ga-

"John Napier," Miss Warrender tells is, "pursued his studies and researches in Merchiston. He was supposed by the vulgar to be deeply versed in magic, and to possess a familiar in the shape of a jet black cock. Napier brought them all up the winding stairs into a darkened room, where the cock was placed. He commanded them to stroke ts back, declaring that it would crow at the touch of the guilty person. During the whole ceremony th silent, but afterward the hand of the culprit was found to be free from the soot with which the bird's feathers had been liberally sprinkled."

How the People of Sangir Keep Time. The people of Sangir, an island of the Malay Archipelago, keep time by the aid of an hour glass formed by arranging two bottles neck to neck. The sand runs out in half an hour, when the bottles are reversed. Lear water. Was so weak was not able to be off my bed sand, was rapidly growing worse. Nearly all my people are troubled in the same way and have tried a great many physicians, so I though I would try something they newer tried and went to the celebrated Chinese physician, Dr. Hong Soi. He said my blood was turning to water, which is something no other physician had ever told us. He said he could cure me inside of two months. I took his medicines (and strictly followed his instructions in regard to diet, etc., for six weeks when he pronounced me cured. Am now strong and well and I freely recommend Dr.

A School Teacher at Cuffey's Cove Murdered - The Unfortunate Taylor Family Arrive at San Francisco.

By Telegraph to The Times.

MARYSVILLE, June 2.- By the Associated Press.] Seven days have now been consumed in taking testimony in the case of W. L. Wilson, one of the defendants charged with tampering with fifty-five ballots cast at the election in Willows, Colusa (now Gleun) county, at the election last November, when the question of division was being voted upon. Unless rebuttal evidence is put in the testimony will probably conclude tonight. The defendant in this particular case is on the stand, having been examined by the defense, and is now undergoing a very minute and detailed cross-examination.

During the entire trial about one hundred witnesses have been exam-ined by the prosecution and defense. Some witnesses came from Colusa and

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—[By the Associated Press.] The Chronicle's special from Mendocino says: "D. C. Shull, principal of the school at Cuffey's Cove, was shot and killed last Friday evening by a stage driver named Roades. Shull boarded at the house of the mother of May Thurston, a teacher in the public school. Roades called on Miss Thurston in the afternoon and demanded that she should marry She refused to do so, and Roades him. She refused to do so, and Roades choked her, and then went in search of a rifle with which to shoot her. Ha-procured a rifle at a neignbor's house, but in the meantime Miss Thurston had been warned, and escaped.

had been warned, and escaped.

"Shull was alone in the house when Rosdes returned there. Rosdes tried the front door but found it locked. He then went to the back of the house. He soon saw Shull pass the open door-way and fired at him, the ball passing through Sauli's body and killing him instantly. Roades escaped immed-lately. He took a borse from a boy iately. He took a horse from a boy and went to the mountains. A posse has gone in search of him. It is sup-posed Roades thought Shull had in-fluenced Miss Thurston against him. Shull was a successful teacher and was to have been married last Sunday".

ANAHEIM DOINGS.

The City Votes to Issue Improve-

ANAHEIM, June 2.—[By the Associated Press. | A light vote was cast at today's bond election. The result was: 104 or, 31 against. The city will Issue $150,000 in bonds for municipal mprovements.

At a meeting of the directors of the Anaheim Irrigation District this morning the Southern Pacific Railroad's petition to be excluded from the district was deferred for consideration for one month. In the meantime a conference of all districts through which the railroad runs will be held, probably at Bakersfield, June 16, when this question, which saffects seven irriga-tion districts in California, will be discussed and united action taken.

Progressive Gilroy. GILROY, June 2 .- Prominent mem bers of the Farmers' Alliance of this county have decided to build and county have decided to build and equip a first-class flucing mill and box factory at this point. The site of the burned cannery will probably be utilized and the same machinery will be used for the proposed electric light plant. The articles of incorporation have been drawn up and signed.

BUSINESS.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS ANGELES, June 2, 1891.
California early fruits seem to be holding their own in those cities of the East to which shipments are made. A dispatch from Chicago says: "The Earl Fruit Company sold one car of California fruit at auction today, realizing the following prices: Cherries, Royal Anne, $1.60@1.95; Black Tartarian, $1.40@1.50; Biggereau, $1,25@ 1.50; Royal apricots, half-crates, $2.50 @3 00; cherry plams, small but go d, $1.25. Some cherries in bad order sold for less."

There were no changes of importance in the local markets today.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Dealings in the stock market today retained their late professional character. The market opened materially higher on demand from the shorts, but the selling pressure wiped out all gains with small fractions in addition. Dealings is the market after the first hour were quite devoid of special feature, but a steady advance iffed everything but Jersey Central. The close was fairly active and strong at the best prices. The final changes include advances of 1½ per cent, in St. Paul, and I each in Missour. Pacific and Rick Island, and a loss of 1½ in Jersey Central.

During the entire trial about one hundred witnesses have been examined by the prosecution and defense. Some witnesses came from Colusa and Glenn counties, and some from places as distant as Oregon. By a tacit understanding the attorneys have gone into the investigation at great length, the result being that much has been brought out that has very little bearing to the allegation of felony on the part of the defendant, the idea probably being to let everything come jut at this trial, so that much of it could be admitted by the one or the other side at the succeeding trials, there being about twenty defendants and not a forced attendance of all witnesses.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2 .- [Special to THE TIMES.] Sales of fruit in all lines, with few exceptions, are light in consequence of cool weather. Currants are now coming forward very freely and prices have dropped. Raspberries are also pientiful, and stocks were moving off slowly this morning. The situation in cherries is unchanged; receipts are liberal. Strawberries are getting searcer and the market is very firm. Apricots are on the market and arriving in fairly good condition. California limes and lemons are scarce.

New potatoes are a trid-firmer. Receipts this morning were comparatively light. Early Rose in boxes, from the river, are doing very well. Supplies of asparagus were light today, and the market was firmer. String beans were also firmer.

Eggs were firmer this morning owing to light receipts and lack of eastern stock in the m rket. There was a slight advance in the price.

Oh, twilight hour of faint and mystic light,
When shadows fall across the fading land,
And long forgotten voices of the past
Float back and chant like spirits of the night,
In voices sad and solemn, till at last,
Waverlug, they cease in the uncertain light.

When mists along the water rise and drift And hang upon the rimpling wavelets clear. In which the dark reflections of the trees Shadowy, indistinct and dim appear. Like specters, tall and gaunt, the cedar trees Stand dark against the golden tinted sky, Whilst from their topmost boughs the settling Crow Utters its desolate and direful cry.

The undulating reeds sway to the breeze
That o'er them sighs its plaintive wailing note; In the twilight hush like vespers soft it sound As o'er the tranquii water it doth float.

Oh, silent hour, dreamlike and indistinct, When long forgotten roices of the past
Return, and hold-communion with the soull
Oh, sad and sacred hour of dying day,
Whose death the hallowed Angeles doth toll,
Kneel thou to silent night and his dread sway

STATE UNIVERSALISTS.

California Convention in Annual Session.

DETAILS OF THE PROCEEDINGS

How the School Election Resulted-A Hotel to be Bullt on the Peak-Toll-road Officers-Brevities.

The California Universalist Convention convened in annual session yesterday evening at the Universalist Church. It will not be out of place to preface the proceedings of this distinguished body with a brief history of present. Universalism.

Universalism as a doctrine traces its origin to the scriptures. Its friends claim that Christ and His disciples taught it, if their language be rightly interpreted by reason and conscience. They claim it was the doctrine of the early Christian Church. Dr. Beecher is cited, where in his history of the doctrine of retributions, he says of the first six theological schools ever established four taught Universalism, one taught annihilation and but one taught endless punishment. Modern Universalism dates back to one John Relly of England, one of whose disciples, John Murray, came to this country in 1770, The new doctrine met with strong op-position from the well-organized churches of the long-established doc trines and for many years the work was chiefly controversial.

Its constructive period covers about fifty years, during which time it has established several seminaries of learnestablished several seminary and three ing, four prosperous colleges and three theological schools, with an aggregate Will Build a Hotel on Mount Wilson.

Next a hymn was sung, after which Rev. S. A. Gardner of Fresno preached a powerful sermon from the text, "Salute the Friends," as found in the last verse of the last epistle of John. The speaker referred to the great importance which the Bible attaches to friendship. Dean Swift said: "A fig for your bill of fare, show us your company," Continuing, the trite but True saying, "A man is known by the company he keeps" was quoted, and the same, the speaker said, is true of a religious denomination. It was next inquired, who are the friends of liberal Christianity? First among them was named the Nineteenth Century. "Had we been sliving in the seventeenth century," said the speaker, "believing and preaching as we do now, we should not have been living very long. Some one would have heaped some fagots about a stake and speaker a soid, is to be built. Articles of incorporation of the Pasadena and Mt. Wilson Railway Company were proposed for filing. try. The nineteenth century is in full sympathy with us. Its most advanced though, is on our side. Whenever one of the old denominations is shaken up, the biggest men, like the biggest apples in a barrel, always come to the top and roll off. These are they who roll toward our camp." The other friends to liberal Christianity mentioned were the poets; all who lost friends; all who are in any trouble look in that direction with ever-growing sympathy; the rocks, the mountains, the rivers, the clouds, the flowers and the sers—in each case, under each of these heads, appropriate illustrations being given. The discourse held the close attention of those present. The evening's exercises closed with a hymn and the benediction.

The State convention which meets at Pasadena this week is probably the road to Mt. Wilson, and to build on youngest of any denomination in California, yet it has many leading representatives among its members.

There was Just a Little Fun After

Notwithstanding the cheerful assurances given out vesterday afternoon to the effect that the school trustee contest was utterly devoid of excitement and that Mr. Masters had the field to himself, the true state of affairs was not altogether as serene as pictured. A few hours before sunset, the time fixed for closing the polls, what may be called for convenience the "opposing faction," who on this occasion were either not manly enough to publicly proclaim their candidate or were too impecunious to have his name printed on their tickets, began scratching Mr. Masters' tickets in favor of D. Arnold.

He was not a milksop, but a straightforward, manly fellow, with a tinge of melancholy in his disposition. He was honorable and persistent in his wooing, but the girl did not regard his suit with favor. She told him to forget her, and seek some one who could return his love. Young became moody and dejected after this rebuff and threatened to shoot himself. Miss Wheeler reasoned him out of this resolve and missers. reasoned him out of this resolve, and mis taking her anxiety for a kindling of the di taking her anxiety for a kindling of the di-vine spark, Young continued his addresses. He was always respectful, but his constant entreaties became annoying, and the pretty typewriter changed her boarding house in order to escape his importunities. The pa-tient, persevering lover searched San Fran-cisco over until he found her. He told her of an improvement in his circumstant and humbly entreated her to receive his a tentions. Again she refused, and Young declared he would kill hims As this was an old story Miss Wheeler felt no alarm. Next morning, however, she received a letter, beginning "My darling," ending "Yours in death, as I would have been in life," and containing the following remarkable passages: following remarkable passages:

When you receive this I will be past recall. You think I am a child not to be able to cut, curtail and kill my love to order of will. That may be; but when that love is so much stronger than the will (you are the first one who has told me that I had no will), how can I kill it? I know myself well enough for that, and the longer I would live the stronger my love for you would become. So there is nothing for it but to end my life. For if I were to live, I could not live without seeing you, and as that is against your wish, I can only see one way out of it. May you live to see the folly of raising a passion in a man when you do not know what on in a man when you do not know what

The letter seriously impressed its re-cipient, who, accompanied by a friend, went to the romantic Sc place and found him dead. He had put a bullet in his brain. The trial of Mrs. Julia Martin for the murder of her brother-in-law at Birming-ham, Ala., disclosed an awful story of a woman's misfortunes through the of man. Miss Julia Powers was a Georgia girl, the daughter of Joh ers, judge of the superior court. She lost her father when she was very young, and her mother afterward married a northern man, to whom she deeded all her property. Relatives took charge of the children, and brought them up in the belief that their mother was dead. Upon returning home from school at the age of nineteen Miss Julia visited friends in Eufaul, where she met Edward T. Martin, the man whom she subsequently killed. Martin paid her marked attention, and beguiled her under promise of marriage. Later on, while she was living with an uncle at Macon, she wrote for Martin to visit her, as she feared wrote for Martin to visit her, as she feared the consequences of their wrongdoing. He did so, and in the evening, while her uncle was entertaining a convention of bishops, they took a walk together. A dog ran across their path, and Martin, feigning fright, sprang down a steep cliff and called upon Julia to do likewise. He held up his arms as though intending to catch ber, but as she jumped he stepped aside and she fell twelve feet. He then got a carriage and took her to a house, where she gave birth to a dead child. She lay sick at this place eleven months. Upon recovering she journeyed to Eufanla.

She lay sick at this place eleven months. Upon recovering she journeyed to Eufanla, but Martin repudiated her. Clarence Martin, a brother of Edward, fell in love with her, and she went to Galveston and lived with him two years as his wife. Puring this period she mingled in good society, nursed sick neighbors and otherwise conducted herself well. To prove his affection and to avert anything like scandal in the future Clarence took her to Austin and they were married in an Episcopal church. A short time after the ceremony they moved to Dallas, Tex.

She accepted and returned.

But Edward Martin was not satisfied with their niere separation. He was determined his brother should be divorced, and engaged a private detective to watch the abandoned wife. While at Eureka, Ark., for her health, Mrs. Martin was an-noyed by the attentions of a man said to have been in the employ of this detective. Finding that he could not accomplish any-thing himself, the fellow is alleged to have offered a porter at the hotel fifty dollars to secrete himself in Mrs. Martin's room and create a scandal. The porter refused. Mrs. Martin was told of the plot, and visited Birmingham again to protest against the

All those facts came out on the trial, which lasted over a week. Public sympathy was decidedly on the prisoner's side. He drank three Manhattan cocksupper. Then he again drank freely. Shots were heard in his apartment shortly after he had retired, and on the door being broken in he was found leaning against the bed, bleeding from his breast and mouth. A five chambered revolver lay empty on the floor. The mirror over the bureau been shattered by one bullet; the mark another stray missile was in the wall of the chamber. One shot had taken effect near his heart; two others had lodged in the roof of his mouth. When asked why he had attempted suicide the wounded man calmly replied: "Because I am unhappy. Today my wife was granted a divorce, and I do not care to live longer. I blame Judge McAdam, and I blame my wife and mother-it-law. My wife, however, would have been all right if it had not been for her mother."

if it had not been for her mother."

Landauer was taken to Bellevue hospital, where his wounds were discovered to be critical. He was anxious to see his child, but Mrs. Landauer refused to allow the boy to leave home. Several friends gathered around his couch, and Landauer requested them to repeat the last prayer of the Jewish church for the dying. As this mountful service was chanted the this mournful service was chanted the would-be suicide cried out at intervals: "My boy! my child! To see him is my last wish. Mrs. Parker alleges that a few days ago Madison abused his wife in a sham-ful manner, and that the poor woman, being afr id to live with him any longer, sought employment and a refuge at the companiant's residence. On Saturday evening Madison, disguised with faise be rd and whiskers, and wearing eye-giasses, called at Mrs. Parker's house and asked to see Mrs. Madison, claiming that he had been sent by her husband to compromise their difficulty, if possible. Mrs. Parker, however, recognized his voice and ord-red him to leave, at the same time slamming the front door in his face. Insend of doing so Madison kicked the door open, and drawing a pistol, threatened to kill both his wife and Mrs. Parker, and after frightening the poor women into hysterics left the place. resides on Pico Heights, charging Charles

Still Another Complaint. Court yesterday against Mary Blondell, the ameda-street courtesan, who was arrested Sunday for vagrancy and petty larceny, charging her with having robbed a youth charging her with having robbed a youth named Arthur D. Mauli of $20 in gold on saturday night last. The complainant alteges that while under the influence of liquor, he visited th woman's "crib" for an immoral purpose. He then had $20 in gold, B in sliver and some change in his pockets. After remaining there about half an hour he gave the woman $1 and left; but subsequently missed the $20 plece and returned. He demanded the money of the woman, but the denied having seen it, and he then complained to an officer and had her arrested.

The woman on the other hand claims that Mauli did not have a $20 plece when he went to her crib; but casimed to have had one, thinking that she would give him the money in order to avoid arrest, should he parry out his threat and call at officer.
